Scenario 1

You are in your first year at university and have just moved into your student accommodation. You don't know your flatmates and you feel alone and uncertain.

What could you do to settle into university life?

How could you introduce yourself to your flatmates?

Scenario 2

You share a flat with six other students. You like to buy your own milk from the supermarket. One morning you go in the kitchen to have your breakfast, you look in the fridge and someone has used the last of your milk. You don't know who used up your milk.

What would you do?

How could you stop this from happening again?

Scenario 3

It's the end of the month and the rent is due. You arranged for the rent to come out of your bank account and then each of your flatmates give you their share of the rent. One of your flatmates has not given you their share of the rent.

What would you do?

Scenario 4

You live with seven other students. You notice that the kitchen bin is overflowing with rubbish. You took the bin out last week and you don't see why you should have to do it again.

Scenario 5

You woke up late and are running 40 minutes late for a lecture. This is the third time you are going to be late.

What do you think the consequences might be?

How could you prevent it from happening again?

Scenario 6

You realise you are down to your last £10 of the month and it is still a few days until you get paid from your part-time job. There's a party going on in the Student Union bar tonight and all your friends are going.

What would you do?

Scenario 7

You move into a house with five of your friends. You know you need a TV Licence to be able to watch TV.

How do you decide which one of you should buy it and put their name on it?

Scenario 8

You wake up one night to get a glass of water. As you walk into the kitchen you smell gas and it seems to be coming from the cooker.

What would you do?

Scenario 9

You notice that some of your favourite mugs have gone missing from the kitchen. You suspect one of your flatmates may be leaving them in their room.

Scenario 10

You are a few weeks into your first year of University, and you notice that one of your flatmates who seemed very excited in freshers week, has become quiet and spends all of their time in their room. Your other flatmates are beginning to worry about them.

What would you do?

Scenario 11

You and five friends move into a house with two bathrooms. After a few months, one of the showers gets blocked, and no one has been able to unblock it. This leads to a long queue for the other bathroom every morning, and you have been late to several lectures because of this.

Whose responsibility is it to solve the problem, and how would you solve it?

What steps could you take to avoid being late in this scenario?
